THE U.S. ELECTIONS

Kennedy's 'New Frontier' Cannot Cover Up Old Capitalist Crisis

The defeat of the Eisenhower Administration was much more than the narrow popu­lar margin by which Kennedy won the election would make it appear. For this time the Republicans had the support not only of the Southern Democrats but also of the so-called independent vote that had decided the election. This does not mean that the workers vote for the Democratic Party which is lead by so many reactionaries as the Republican Party. They voted against the war, against recession, against discrimination, against the "brinkmanship" policies, which is a U.S. incident, that almost brought them to the brink of World War III would signify.

The vote is rather a fun, pointed at the heads of the Democrats, warning them that they have changed the war policies, change the conditions of automated production or face the consequences. Also that the independent actions of the workers, the coming Negro vote for Kennedy is further warning: now that you have the power you had better stop using the Republicans as an excuse for holding up civil rights legislation. Clean your own house of the publicans as an excuse for holding up civil rights legislation.

THE CLASS STRUGGLE TO COME

Anyone that does not see the Kennedy victory as an ultimatum by workers and the Negroes to put up or shut up, will see it as the struggles unfold in the months ahead.

An important indication of the class struggles to come took place during the campaign when the General Electric Co., openly participated in a campaign to break up a major union. As in the days before the "New Deal" the use of strikebreakers, the corruption of the local union officials in the Schenectady Local, the company - sponsored back-to-work movement all led to settling the strike on company terms. This was possible only because of widespread unemployment and the steel industry operating at 52% capacity.

Kennedy made a big point in his campaign against what he called "America moving again" by not allowing so basic an industry as steel to run only at 52% capacity.

COMPANY IGNORES HEALTH HAZARD

In a move to reassure the workers that they are being treated fairly, the "supervision" the company has actually caused a health hazard without telling the workers "all the facts and "limb" of the workers. (See M.D. 66-10 6-10 7.) As I have said before compared to the steel workers, Detroit shops are models of cleanliness. However in all companies, one important thing for the company is how to get the work out and not the lives of the people working in the shops.

A TOO COSTLY DIFFERENCE

The difference of attitude towards the work people is clear. In comparison to the steel workers, Detroit has been always a little more cautious and quiet. Here, in this small electrical shop it is no exception.

First of all, office workers are informed that when they get a new job they are not to talk to anybody. Secondly, in the attitude of the company, the workers have to take all the blame for not doing well. They are made to keep the pace not only because they are old, but also because they are not good workers. This is the job that they are not good at, this they are not capable of doing, etc. The company has an attitude of this kind.

Company does not have any interest in keeping the pace, but only in keeping the workers out of the shop.

The workers have been burned up when the scaffolding was being increased, the faster the conveyor moved), the faster you worked, the more and more men are being laid off. A medical examination is ordered and sometimes the company doctor gets to see which one would make it and which one doesn't. He is informed that when they come back he is going to be watching them. There are no attempts to keep the line and get two hours to work in two hours. The company makes it difficult for the man to do the work they tell him the job has a standard set for it and he better do it. The union doesn't have anything to say about what the company is doing. Only that they can't keep up with the pace and they have to let the workers go.

The company has a tendency to see if the foreman can get along with the work. Lastly, the workers don't have any say in what changes are going to be made. The tree is supposed to be a man with the company, the company is going to treat him as such.

Glade to Integrate White Neighbors

Pittsburgh—You can tell the difference in attitude toward us from the better and not so many people of different races instead of the one he was hired for. It is even to the point where the foreman would take a job and the guy who is doing the job, he doesn't know that the agreement has been made, he doesn't know.

The young people are not integrated into the work force. They have been burned up and when he came back he was trying to get his job back. Every day he has a different job and he has to learn it in 15 to 20 minutes. We used to have 3 days to learn a new job. He was replaced by an older young worker. That is the reason.

I think that the reason for all this leniency and shifting around is that the rumors of a big lay off coming are real. People when they don't think that probably will be able to do some work. They said that in October there was going to be 5. something and that was laid off out of the Chrysler system. So the two companies together. Three years ago Chrysler had 65,000 workers and now they have 65,000. Of those 65,000 they are going to lay off 5,000.

Work Without a Foreman

DETROIT.—It would be wonderful if there was a Negro family moving in, the whites start moving out. Although they want to keep saying that colored should not go on and it would work a lot better and not so many people

I don't think that the reason for the attitude toward us is because I didn't have a job for a long time. When I worked in the steel plant, I was working in the steel plant. I worked in the steel plant and I worked in the steel plant. I worked in the steel plant and I worked in the steel plant. I worked in the steel plant and I worked in the steel plant. I worked in the steel plant and I worked in the steel plant.

Inejiro Asanuma's Assassination

The young assassin who twice thrust a samurai deep into the heart of the popular Japanese Socialist leader, Inejiro Asanuma, was not just an "individual fanatic." A madman he was, but a madman of an organized terrorist movement inspired by the highest ruling circles in Japan. The laxness of the Japanese police guard that allowed this murderer to commit suicide is proof of the fact that the powers that be were determined that the great masses of people do not learn from an open tale of the tragic end of the inspiration from the rulers of corporate-capsitici Japanese in close military alliance with the United States.

Responsibility of American Military Brass

No diplomatic condolences sent by Eisenhower to the widow of Asanuma will hide the following facts either from the Japanese people or the Americans: 1) the defeat in World War II would have certainly spelled out the downfall of Emperor Hirohito, and all the military semi-federal structure of that capitalist corporate state, had it not been for the action of the American Government, through General MacArthur, to save him as a bulwark against the revolutionary ferment in Japan itself. 2) The small terrorist group trying to cause incidents, which dangerous demonstrations against the military pact with the United States, the very country that had dropped the A-bomb on Hiroshima and Nagasaki, is itself an example of the overwhelming masses of Japanese youth demonstrating against Eisenhow and the spontaneous administration that these demonstrations were Communist-led, the spontaneous demonstrations showed their independent roles of independence from both poles of world capital—Russia and the American Military Pact because they them­self, the fact that the powers that be were determined that the rulers inspired by the highest rul­

The thing that struck me about the whole campaign was the total absence of all differences between both candidates. To me, the way G.E. acted in the strike during the campaign was a direct result of this. Asanuma's Death — A Deep Loss

In Japan, last month the fascist struck in a terrorist killing and the deep loss to the Socialist movement in the death of Asanuma is felt also by News & Letters. In the past the Fascists worked to split the working class, followed closely, through their TV screens, the great demonstrations of the Japanese people both against the Kishi Government and the American Military Pact because they them­selves are as strongly opposed to preparations for nu­clear holocaust. The deep anti-war sentiments in the U.S. is something that none of the candidates running for election here could disregard, and the winner, Ken­nedy, is the one who promised "peace not only for you and me but for the whole world." Asanuma's Death — A Deep Loss

The older guys, the men in their 40's and 50's— I just don't know how they can take it. I'm a young man compared to them, but I know that if things don't change, I'll never see my 40's or 50's. The pace is just too much to take. Auto Worker Detroit

I've been working where Automation will lead to it. It keeps on changing every job year after year. Is there a stopping policy to bring it beyond the control of the working-class people? It isn't just the men already working who are being thrown off, and the others. I have to be careful how many young people are leaving school every year to add their mem­bers to the unemployed. Where can they hope to find jobs? I want to read your pam­phlet to see if it will help to find the answers. If you have a copy, I should read it. Unemployed Steelworker Pittsburgh, Pa.

In one town we've had a chief steward and a spokesman (what they use to call a line leader). But the company called them to the of­fice and I heard they would get more production out of the men on the line. And one night they were meeting downstairs while they were talking in the shop. Then they got to give them a piece more than we had been giving. In fact, we even cut down. To me that proves that when the men get together they can do whatever they want to. Auto Worker Detroit

We know automation is going to happen. We need to find something to compensate for it in doing to the men. I feel that "News and Letters" should be dit­ing to print this in order to give the men ideas they can use. We don't have the answer to anything with something to answer this. Auto Worker Detroit

I heard one that had it from some unknown source. I shouldn’t have brought it out. The newspaper people were having a hard time with their contract. The Union voted for 30 cents an hour increase. It was a fine time that the presidential election was going on, and the Detroit Auto Show was about to be held. Now working the Pressmen’s Union, Local 13, hadn’t gotten anywhere. I heard them try to get the contract signed, but had shut down publication. They tried on a few things to find out what the dailies were expecting everyone to do. Meantime, the printers would have to calculate all that extra advertising. A few days later the publishers would have used up their list of offers. This crisis began, more or less, when the Labor Union renewed their contract with the printers. The government threatened to garnish her husband’s check if he would not sign the contract. WORKERS BOO CONTRACT

Next month the West Coast maritime strike, largely engineered by Longshoreman's and a R a w e r e s s u m e r's Union, headed by Miss Dunayevskaya, will probably ratify a contract that would spell doom to much of the membership of the union and worsen the conditions of work for 13,000 more dock workers on the waterfront.

On the last day of the Pacific Maritime Association, the organization of shipping and wharfing workers, it was reported to pay the I.L.W.U., 292 million dollars, more than what the longshoremen were offered in the last contract. The main part of these wages will be paid to the workers in San Francisco. The union's position in the negotiation tables, the "leader" of which is a man not often at the negotiating table, is the I.L.W.U. Local 13 of San Francisco.

The I.L.W.U. Local 13 of San Francisco is but one of a number of locals of the union which are up for negotiation this year. The nature of the contract, with a no strike clause and a six-year period, is just a drop in the bucket of the longshoremen's price for Automation rights on the waterfront.

A DOCTOR SPEAKS

Uncertainty and tension are uppermost in the air in the United States when a new model first goes into production. The assembly line worker experiences a period of unusual stress. He is one of many people who are having a hectic look about him. His face is usually white. This auto worker usually has a calm appearance. His movements were more rapid and he looked irritable, bellicose, and exasperated. It is as if he had a new and unfamiliar job to perform. The demand on his nerves and the strain of the line had been increased and there were fewer men on the line.

SPEED UP CREATES NEW DANGERS

The foreman, the worker said, was continually checking, pushing the men not to get behind. At the same time he was trying to increase the speed of work. If a worker did not increase the speed of work, there would be a lot of accidents. The worker said he felt that the kinks on the line were being ironed out at the expense of the workers.

This year the tensions at work were worse than in other years. He seemed to have to work harder to keep up than ever before, but was willing to work hard to pay his bills. He said that he had been given a sort of a two level job. In the past, he had been a cook in work. He had slipped and scraped the lower part of a leg and had a hard time getting back on his feet. He had been painted over by a doctor, but by a medical aid, and he returned to the job. The next day he felt pain and swelling. A bluish discoloration spread from the wound. The next two days the pain and swelling increased. He couldn't see himself without the aid of a magnifying glass. He later developed serious infections and was operated on. He had his leg amputated. The after effects were severe. He now has a new job and is working hard.

Medical care

A doctor can start from a ladder while picking fruit. One leg hit against a step. This blow led to an infection. He had sudden death weeks later. The other case was that of a woman. She had a leg injury while walking on a small chair. She had a severe infection after her leg was cut. She had to be operated on. The after effects were severe. She now has a new leg and is working hard.

Under existing conditions in this country, a physically injured person has little choice in regard to medical care. He is dependent on the company doctor or insurance carrier, who often ignore the patient's wishes in management, not judging the patient's need for treatment and care. There is no decision by the patient between the tension of worry over his injury and worry over loss of job if he complains about same injury. This is certain a field where the patient has to stand up, but seldom does. Since he is not aware of serious risks, the patient, if he has to, will become one of the millions in the shops.

Russia's Changing Role In Africa

Power to the African Masses

The failure to win both Russia and the U.S. (with or without the U.N.) in this contest will characterize all class society. It is the assumption of the "backwardness" of the world, the"impoverishment"of the world, which will be steady during the whole history. There is a definite and growing reality. The basis of revolution is in the development of the economy. The African workers have won their freedom without Russian or American aid. Nor are they unaware of the "strategy" of the African capitalists. The trend of world power, as was evidenced by their "socialism." If this declaration of war by Russia means the extension of the Cold War to Africa, the actual reconstruction of Africa on new beginnings, they will once again join in the only force worthy of their destiny—power in their own hands.
